Farm-Fresh Goodness

Your Handy Guide to Texas Farmers Markets and Fresh Produce

GO TEXAN.

TEXAS DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE
COMMISSIONER TODD STAPLES

GO TEXAN.

Texas Produce:
Fresh and Fantastic!

There's nothing more satisfying than a basket full of sun-kissed corn, or tastier than a freshly picked tomato, peach or cucumber. Your local farmers market is a wonderful place to find tempting, Texas-grown produce at the peak of its natural goodness. You can also discover unexpected treasures such as fresh flowers, herbs, and local jams and jellies. Visit one of the state's pick-your-own locations and you can harvest-by-hand delectable, farm-fresh berries, pears, apples, peppers, peas and more.

The Texas Department of Agriculture helps market and promote Texas products through the GO TEXAN program. Look for the GO TEXAN mark to know you're getting a true Texas product. For more information on GO TEXAN, visit www.gotexan.org or call (877) 99-GOTEX. For additional details on what Texas grows, visit www.PickTexas.com.

Texas is one of the largest producers of fresh fruits and vegetables, so your choices are always endless. More than 60 commercial fruit and vegetable crops are grown in the Lone Star State – from apples to zucchini and everything in between.

Use this handy guide as a quick reference to the state certified farmers market locations and other opportunities to pick the very best of Texas. (Some markets are seasonal and certain products are subject to availability. Always check before traveling.)

*Cruciferous vegetable – One serving of these selections supplies at least 10 percent of the U.S. Recommended Daily Allowance for vitamins A or C or at least 1-3 grams of dietary fiber per serving. The American Cancer Society recommends a diet high in cruciferous vegetables, as they appear to be linked with lower risks of certain cancers.

Texas Farmers Markets

In the Market for Fresh Produce?

Here's Your Source!
Certified Texas Farmers Markets

If you want local produce, look no further than a Texas farmers market. Food lovers know that nothing compares with that just-picked flavor. In addition to perfectly ripened fruits and vegetables, you can often find fresh-cut flowers, tasty jams, tempting jellies, quality cheeses and other specialty items. In the friendly, relaxed atmosphere you can ask for recipes, discuss cooking and storing tips, and pick up other helpful information.

Quick Facts:

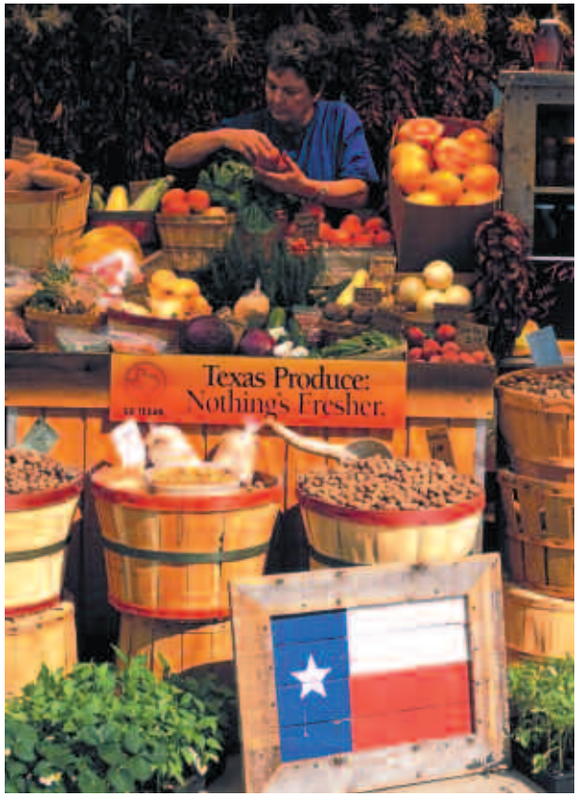

There are more than 115 certified farmers markets in Texas.

Approximately 1,045 small producers sell products at TDA-certified farmers markets.

Season: April 15-Oct. 30 for most markets.

Certified Texas farmers markets are listed in this guide by city with counties noted. Remember to verify the markets' hours, seasons and locations as they can vary or change quickly. A Texas county map is provided on the inside of the back page for reference.

A small sample of what Texas farmers markets have in store for you: apples, asparagus, blackberries, blueberries, broccoli, cabbage, cantaloupe, carrots, celery, cucumbers, green onions, greens, herbs, honeydews, nectarines, onions, pears, peas, peaches, bell peppers, potatoes, new potatoes, pumpkins, spinach, strawberries, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, turnips and watermelons.

Fresh Produce Selection Tips

If your only experience with fresh fruits and vegetables has been in the produce aisle of your neighborhood grocery store, you're in for a real treat. You'll be amazed at how fresh and satisfying meals can be prepared with produce you've harvested with your own hands. To make the best choices for your table, follow these general guidelines:

Apples: Select apples firm to the touch, with smooth, clean skin and good color.

Blackberries: Plump berries are juicy berries. Look for luscious, well-colored berries.

Blueberries: The operative word here is "blue" – choose brightly hued blueberries with a fresh, dewy appearance.

Cantaloupe: While some advocate thumping a cantaloupe to determine freshness, we recommend you go with look and smell. The perfect cantaloupe should be yellowish in color, with a fresh aroma when held to your nose.

Carrots: For carrots that will make you the envy of rabbits everywhere, select firm, smooth and well-colored specimens with a good shape.

Celery: Fresh celery should be crisp and clean. Check for celery stalks that break easily.

Corn: On or off the cob, fresh corn is a welcome addition to any picnic, cookout or celebration. Look for well-colored green husks with silk ends that are free of decay.

Cucumbers: Whether you're planning on making pickles or adding some variety to your salad without the calories, select well-shaped cucumbers that are firm, with a deep green color.

Greens: Again, take a hint from the name, and look for fresh, plump, crisp green leaves with no signs of wilting or yellowing.

Green Onions: There's no need for tears when you pick green and crisp onions with bright green tops and a firm white base.

Peaches: Pick fresh peaches that yield to gentle pressure and have a yellowish creamy color.

Pears: It's all about appearance with this fruit. Choose brightly colored pears with a fresh aroma.

Peppers: Pick more than just a peck of peppers. Go for firm peppers with brightly colored skins.

Plums: You'll be plum amazed at this fruit's fresh-picked taste! Choose bright-colored fresh plums that yield to gentle pressure.

Potatoes: Choose smooth and clean firm spuds with good color and as few eyes as possible.

Best Selection, Your Choice – First Hand!

Pick-Your-Own Locations, Roadside Stands and On-the-Farm Sales

Want the freshest produce available? Try your hand at harvesting everything from fresh berries, herbs and apples to citrus and cut flowers. Every year, Texas farmers across the state invite everyone to hand pick the best of their crop. Visiting a pick-your-own farm can be a great recipe for a fun family memory or school trip. Nothing beats the smiles on children's faces as they sink their teeth into a just-picked sweet juicy peach or a vine-ripened tomato. In this guide you'll find pick-your-own operations and roadside stands listed by county. Remember to verify listings before traveling – then take your pick of the best Texas offers.

Agriculture Facts:

Texas leads the nation in the number of farms, ranches and land in agricultural production.

Texas farmers grow more than 60 different commercial fruit and vegetable crops.

One out of every seven Texans owes his or her job to the agricultural industry.

Key to the listings:

CSA = consumer supported agriculture
CQ = commercial quantities available
D = delivery available
PYO = pick-your-own
RS = roadside stand
FP = fresh-picked on-the-farm sales
